5 Studying with Pivotal

5.1 Your role as a training participant

Learning in the workplace means that you are learning new skills and knowledge as part of your everyday work. It is your responsibility to be an active learner and use every opportunity to listen, read, practise, observe, ask questions and keep up-to-date records of what you are achieving.

You need to:

- Understand what the learning program is all about
- Identify your existing skills and knowledge
- Develop a training plan in consultation with your supervisor and your Pivotal consultant
- Provide evidence to show you have the skills and knowledge you claim to have
- Collect evidence of your work (where it applies to your unit of study)
- Talk to your supervisor about what you are learning and ask them questions
- Share your ideas with colleagues

5.2 The role of the workplace supervisor

Your employer/workplace supervisor must provide you with:

- Every opportunity to learn the skills and acquire the knowledge of the training
- Access to structure on and/or off –the- job training
- Time at work to undertake training and complete activities/assessment tasks
- A safe working environment
- A work environment free from any form of harassment

Your supervisor will be given a Supervisors Handbook which will outline their responsibilities connected to your responsibilities.

WHAT IF THERE ARE PARTS OF THE TRAINING YOU CAN ALREADY DO?

Pivotal Training and Development recognises the skills and knowledge you have gained through previous studies, work and/or life experiences. We call this Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC) or Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL). Pivotal also recognise Qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by other RTOs. The term for this is Mutual Recognition.

Recognition is granted when you provide evidence to demonstrate that you have achieved units(s) of competency. If you are given recognition for unit(s) of competency you do not need to complete those unit(s) of competency as part of your training program.

If you would like to apply for recognition, speak to your assessor who will arrange the RPL Kit for you.

Note: RPL is not applicable to SafeWork NSW approved programs

6 Training, Assessment & Evidence

6.1 Training

Training will normally take place on the job in your workplace with a combination of workshops and individual visits. Your workplace training will be supported with learner guides. Each learning guide will provide information about the topic, and set activities and questions to be completed. Your assessor may also set projects and other activities relating directly to your workplace.

6.2 Assessment

Your trainer/assessor will tell you exactly how, and when, your assessment will take place so you will have time to prepare. Assessment will utilise a combination of methods depending on your needs and the requirements of your course. Some of the methods are:

- Written Assessment
- Collection of evidence / Portfolio
- Workplace samples
- Practical demonstration / simulation
- Verification from your supervisor/ employer representative of your workplace competencies

You will be required to sign the assessment sheet that outlines the assessment process for each unit/ module and indicates that you are/ are not ready for assessment.

Remember you do not have to be assessed until you feel you are competent. When you sign, you have the right to say “You are not ready to be assessed”.

6.3 Evidence

Evidence is the term used to describe the information your assessor will use to assess whether you have gained the skills and knowledge consistently and in a variety of situations.

Evidence can come from a previous job or training you may have completed. It might be gathered from the things you currently do or from things you do as part of your training. In order to be deemed competent in a unit of competency, your assessor will use a variety of methods including:

Assessment Tool	How is it used? What is it?
Learner Workbook Activities (Entire completion is required)	Each student should be given a Learner Workbook which will hold a number of activities, that all need to be completed in conjunction with the appropriate sessions. The PowerPoint, Learner Guide and instructor should provide further information to help with the activities.
Observation (To be completed for each numbered point as stated on the checklist)	An observation can be made of any of the students by the instructor or any other appropriate third party, who is happy to observe and report on a student's abilities to complete specific tasks (as stated in the assessment matrix). If the tasks aren't everyday actions, a simulated environment is acceptable. An observation checklist can be found at the end of this document.
Major Activity (Entire completion is required)	A Major Activity can be found in the Learner Workbook, usually after all of the activities are completed. This is an extended piece of revision work which should take anywhere between 1-2 hours and every student should complete this work. It is a necessary requirement for each unit to check knowledge and understanding.

Third Party (To be completed for each numbered point as stated on the checklist)	A Third Party checklist is very similar to that of an Observation, other than it can be completed by someone who works with the learner and has witnessed them completing tasks which coincide with the elements of the unit. A decision will need to be made about the appropriate balance between third party evidence and evidence drawn from other sources (to be determined by assessor)
Case Study (Entire completion is required)	Not all units will have Case Studies but those that do will be clearly stated within the PowerPoint and the Learner Workbook. It will appear as any other activity but it will be named 'Case Study' and will provide an example of a possible real life situation for the learner to read, interpret and then answer questions on.
Learner Guide (To be used as an informational guide)	The Learner Guide links with the Learner Workbook as it provides the information given during sessions and more. It can help students to further their knowledge and to also complete the activities.
Evidence Sheet (Not a necessity for completion of unit but can be used as an aid or to collect further evidence)	The Evidence Sheet lists all of the Elements and Performance Criteria with an area for written reports etc, which can be used to add evidence to the student's portfolio. It can be used for any number of the performance criteria, especially that which may not have been covered by any other assessment tool. The student can choose to circle a number of the criteria that they may feel they need further evidence of or it can be used as a guide for completing further Observations and Third Party reports.

Discuss with your assessor the amount of evidence that should be collected. Keep in mind that because there are overlaps between units of competency, one piece of evidence may be relevant to more than one unit, so you can use this evidence again, e.g. Work based project.

TIPS FOR COLLECTING EVIDENCE

- Prepare a portfolio of all material you complete and the information you collect e.g. letters, reports, etc.
- Keep draft copies of your work as well as the final product so your assessor can see how you achieved the final copy
- Write notes about the work you have done, and how and why you did it and place them in the file with your evidence.
- Also write notes about how you will demonstrate a certain task to your assessor.
- All evidence remains confidential and is placed in your student file

7 Outcomes of Assessment

There are two possible outcomes of assessment; Competent and Not Yet Competent. To be deemed “competent” indicates that you have submitted all evidence and assessment material required for the individual unit of competency and you have successfully met the criteria through completion of assessment tasks and where specified, verification by your employer of your ability to perform against the criteria for the unit of competency.

If deemed “Not Yet Competent” this indicates that there are one or more tasks that you need to focus on to demonstrate your abilities/ competence. It should be seen as a way to improve upon your skills. If deemed “Not Yet Competent” an alternate date for reassessment will be set with you, your assessor will provide you feedback to assist in your improvement.

8 Continuing with your training

Once you have been competent in a unit of competency, move onto next unit of competency in your training plan. When you have completed all units in your course, you have met the requirements of the qualification and will be issued with your certification within 30 days. In the case of government funded or subsidised training, the certification will be issued as per the requirements of the training contract.

If you have a problem...

Don't ‘pull out’ or ‘give up’ on your training even if things are not going to plan. They can usually be worked through and modified to ensure a positive outcome.

Do talk immediately to your supervisor, assessor or our Training and Compliance Manager at Pivotal Training and Development

Remember, your training can be the best start to a rewarding career. It will lead you in all sorts of new directions. Let's make it work!

TIPS

- ☒ Always ask for help as soon as you need it
- ☒ Ask questions if you are unsure of anything
- ☒ Learn to identify which tasks you do that can be part of your evidence
- ☒ Regularly gather and file your evidence
- ☒ Always be prepared for meetings with your assessor

CLIENT SUPPORT

If you require any assistance during your on-site training, please contact your trainer/assessor, or the Training and Compliance Manager
Our contact details are on the cover of this booklet.

9 Withdrawing or Suspending Training

There are circumstances where a student may withdraw or suspend their enrolment for personal or academic reasons. The student is required to complete either the Course Suspension Request Form or Cancellation of Enrolment Form. This provides the student the opportunity to specify their reasons and select to indicate their preference to defer their enrolment, to transfer their enrolment to another course or to terminate their enrolment altogether.

Where the enrolment is being terminated, students will be issued a statement of attainment to recognise the outcomes they have achieved during their enrolment. A student who suspends and returns to complete a course will be eligible to recommence their training and receive a credit transfer for any completed units of competency.

The Training and Compliance Manager will review these applications, and interview the student to understand their circumstances and to record their decision using the section provided on the application. Students will be supported through the process to identify any barriers to learning that may need to be overcome to assist with the learning process.

All students will be provided with the decision and outcome in writing as they will be provided with a copy of the relevant form.

10 Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) & Recognition of Current Competence (RCC)

Note: RPL is not applicable to SafeWork NSW approved programs

You may already have some, or all of the competencies listed as part of Certificate you are training in. Your skills, knowledge and previous qualification may be recognised through either the RPL process or RCC process. These processes acknowledge the participants current skills and knowledge acquired through prior education, training and work life experience.

Pivotal Training and Development will recognise and accept Australian Qualifications Framework Qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by other Registered training Organisations under the AQF Standard.

Steps in the RPL/RCC Process

- Request a kit for RPL/ RCC
- Identify the competency standards for which recognition is required.
- Match your qualifications and/or relevant experience to the competency standards.
- Ensure there is sufficient evidence to demonstrate competence.
- Ensure the competency is still current.

The Workplace assessor may;

- Identify additional information that is needed.
- The Assessor records the competency in the Training Record Book.
- Make sure you are aware of RCC.

For fees associated with RPL & RCC, please request a current copy of the RPL kit for your qualification.
